

Which Witch?

Liz and Ann have put on masks. They both look like witches.

They both have black dresses. Liz and Ann both have black hats.

Which witch is Liz? Which one is Ann? People can't tell which is which.

All they see are two witches with two mops. Mops? Witches do not fly on mops.

Why do Liz and Ann have mops? Well, I will tell you why.

When people spill some milk, the two witches mop up the mess.

When there is mud on the steps, they come and mop up that mess.

Ann and Liz are good witches. They do not fly up in the sky on brooms.
